

Accepted Students Visit Manhattanville

The spring-accepted students' events, which included the Board of Trustees (BOT) Weekend and Presidential Scholars' Day, were well attended and received by admitted students and their families. The Board of Trustees Weekend is a two-day (March 20-21), invitation only event for high-end scholars who are invited to stay overnight with current Mville students and learn what it is like to be a Valiant. More than 100 students and 180 additional guests came to Manhattanville for the BOT event. Presidential Scholars' Day (March 28) proved to be another successful event with more than 120 accepted students and 230 additional guests in attendance. Both events also had great support from the Valiant community in answering questions about life at Mville, academic programs, financial aid and any other pertinent questions accepted students and their families had about Mville. All in all, the Admissions team is excited about the Class of 2019 and is looking forward to seeing them in the fall.

Arianna Huffington Opens Castle Conversations

On Wednesday, March 25, the inaugural Castle Conversation lecture was held in the O'Byrne Chapel/The Academic Great Hall with special guest, media mogul Arianna Huffington. Nearly 400 guests were present for the kick off to this special lecture series as Huffington dazzled all with her unique take on the evolving media industry. The four-part series will continue with journalist Dan Rather, astrophysicist Dr. Neil deGrasse Tyson and Pulitzer Prize-winning biographer Doris Kearns Goodwin. For more information, visit castleconversations.org or contact alumni@mville.edu.

More Than 40 Valiant Winter Student-Athletes Honored for Academic Success

Manhattanville had 42 student-athletes honored by the ECAC and MAC for academic success this winter. The Manhattanville men's and women's hockey teams combined for 32 players on the ECAC All-Academic Teams (3.0 GPA or above), with 17 on the Men's West team and 15 on the Women's East team to both finish second in their respective conferences. The Middle Atlantic Conferences honored 10 student-athletes on the MAC Winter Academic Honor Roll (3.20 GPA or above), led by the men's indoor track team with four, followed by the women's indoor track and women's basketball teams with three each. Senior Alyson Caiazzo of the women's basketball team was recognized for both her academic and athletic success this season, as she earned a spot on the MAC Academic All-Conference squad in addition to earning D3hoops.com All-Atlantic Region second-team honors.

Career Development Gives Students Inside Info on Internships

During the month of March, the Center for Career Development (CCD) hosted the majority of its “Inside Internship” workshops, designed to familiarize students with the internship process, how to search and apply for internships, register for credit, what employers look for in an intern, and how the CCD can help. Majors covered in the series included humanities, the sciences and social sciences, global studies, business, and communications. Additionally, the CCD hosted a workshop that provided specific policies and regulations related to International Student internships.

On March 24 students prepared for the annual Spring Internship and Job Fair at the Job Fair Prep workshop by learning what to expect at a job fair and steps to take before and after the job fair. More than 143 students attended the Spring Job and Internship Fair that featured representatives from 55 organizations, and provided an opportunity for students to have a professional head shot taken at the LinkedIn Photo Booth. Finally, the second workshop in the “Life After Mville Senior Series” was held on March 31. Undergraduate, graduate, and alumni created LinkedIn profiles and learned how to build professional networks.

Economic Freedom Institute Lecture Touches on Empire Decline

The Economic Freedom Institute and the Department of Economics, Finance & Management hosted their annual spring lecture. Dr. Glenn Hubbard, dean and the Russell L. Carson professor of Finance and Economics at Columbia Business School, gave a talk about the factors involved in the decline of great nations and discussed what the U.S. policy makers should do to avoid following that same path. He referenced his book, “Balance,” which was published in 2013, and contains many more examples of things that went wrong, causing empires to decline, if not tumble. More than 150 attended the lecture.

School of Education Hosts Several Events

The Professional Development School (PDS) Advisory Board of the Changing Suburbs Institute® met with Bernard Badiali, associate professor at Penn State University, to learn about PDS exemplars. Two local administrators and two alumni shared their perspectives about searching for a job at the Spring Dean’s Symposium, “Getting a Job in Today’s Climate.” Michelle Fine, distinguished professor of Psychology at CUNY Graduate Center, was the distinguished lecturer for the Spring Distinguished Lecturer Program. Her topic was “Widening the Educational Imagination: Educational Possibility in Difficult Times.” This event was co-sponsored by the Teacher Center of Central Westchester and Putnam/Northern Westchester BOCES. The clcu grant for the mid-Hudson Region sponsored five regional meetings related to edTPA, curriculum mapping, embedding the new statewide tests into teacher preparation, best practices, and using simulated data sets to create assessment learning tasks. The clcu Institutional Allocation Grant funds to Manhattanville were used to sponsor two professional development sessions for faculty.

The Countdown to Commencement Heats Up with Annual 50 Nights Celebration

Students ditched their usual garb for togas for the annual 50 Nights event Student Activities organizes. Many came out to the event, which signifies the start of the countdown towards commencement and the end of the academic year.

Students Volunteer in New Jersey Over Spring Break

The Duchesne Center for Religion and Social Justice sent six students to Camden, New Jersey on a service trip over spring break. The students volunteered at a number of locations including the Martin Luther King, Jr. Child Development Center, the New Visions Homeless Day Shelter, and the Abigail House for Nursing and Rehabilitation. The students also participated in social awareness exercises.

School of Business Information Session and Women's Leadership Institute

The School of Business held an information session on March 16 in Reid Castle for graduate, adult undergraduate, post baccalaureate and its Nonprofit Certificate programs. Prospective students met with program directors and heard from a student panel. The next Open House will be held on Thursday, May 7 at 6:15 pm. For more information.

The Women's Leadership Institute presented a workshop on March 30 "Balanced Leadership Live Life Inspired." The full day program was geared to instruct participants to determine a clear singular leadership style; develop a disciplined approach to innovative and critical thinking; demonstrate ways to sustain results with greater impact and purpose; and learn how to lead through continual change and evolution while inspiring and engaging others.
